LITE535-702 (Fa23): SURVEY OF EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLO

New announcement from Jeremy Logsdon

Blog #1 Graded - I am so impressed!

Hello all,

I just graded blog #1, and I can only say how incredibly impressed I am with what you produced!

AI is a new tool to education that will be with us for a while. I hope this opportunity to play around with it, so to speak, was useful for you.

I realize that with the role of AI in this assignment, you were more of a video editor than the director, but what you produced is still amazing. I'm especially impressed with how different prompts could produce significantly different outputs, but everything looked great.

As always with AI, there is the warning that you cannot fully trust it, and this will remain true probably for years to come. (I can refer anyone interested in the story of the lawyer who was sanctioned for using ChatGPT for a legal brief, not realizing that it will produce non-existent court cases. It will also produce non-existent academic citations.) However, the role we as educators need to take (which you all did masterfully here!) is to take the raw data it produces, examine it through our educators' lens, and modify it as needed to fit our needs.

Just a quick preview - you'll get to do a lot more playing around with AI in LITE 550 this Winter term!

So again - fantastic work! I am supremely impressed and I consider myself lucky to get to work with such amazing educators!

Dr. Logsdon
