New announcement from Jeremy Logsdon

Week #2 and a Quick Note of Clarity

Hello all,

I wanted to send this quick reminder about Module #2 (which is due tomorrow night at 11:59 p.m.) and hopefully provide a bit of clarity.

I've gotten a few emails from some of you who are a bit stressed about this assignment. Since posting the module, I shared an exemplar from a former student (used with her permission) so you can get an idea of what a student submission might look like.

One thing I also want to emphasize - I am aware that for some of you, it has perhaps been a bit since you've been in a college class. I can feel the stress, and I want you to know two things.

One - I will help you in whatever way I can, and that includes hopping on Zoom to clarify a concept, checking your work before you submit it, or whatever else.

And two - if you miss the mark, I will let you correct and resubmit for full points. So long as you turn it in on time (or let me know if you need more time), I will absolutely work with you. I want to see everyone not just do well in this course, but more importantly, to learn the content. That means if you mess up, I'll let you fix it because that's how we learn.

I hope this helps alleviate some stress. I understand you are all adults with full-time jobs, and adding a Master's degree on top of that is a big ask. I'm here to help, I promise.

I'll post Module #3 sometime tomorrow, so you'll get another email from me then.

Thanks,

Dr. Logsdon
