That would be great, thank you! There is a university form I submit your email to, IU will send you the details from there. The application deadline is Jan. 15 so just anytime before then should be fine. In the meantime, I'll shoot you my CV when I'm at school tomorrow. I appreciate you taking the time to get to it over winter break.

Taylor,

I would be honored to write a letter of recommendation. I am out of town this week but could get it to you by the end of the weekend if that is acceptable. If you could send me your resume or vita, as well as who the letter should go to and any requirements. I'll get it taken care of.

Dr. Logsdon,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to request your support in writing a letter of recommendation for my application to the Doctor of Education in Instructional Systems Technology program at Indiana University. I graduated in May from the LITE Program, and I am eager to continue my academic and professional development in the field of instructional technology.

I greatly valued your guidance during my time at WKU, and I believe your insight into my academic abilities and commitment to educational technology would make a compelling addition to my application. If you are willing to support me, I can provide any additional materials you may need, such as my resume, personal statement, or specific details about the program.

The deadline for me to submit my application for the Fall semester is Jan. 15th.

Thank you and Happy Holidays!

Taylor Criswell
